Why do you want to be a CBSA judge? Why do you think you are qualified? _____

What are your special talents you would like to contribute to this team? Circle all that apply.

- I am super good at remembering meetings and times. I will be glad to remind everyone about meetings.
- I am a great photographer. I would love to take pictures at our meetings and send them on to our mentor.
- I am a tech genius. I am looking forward to using my tech talents to make our book talk strong and memorable.
- Tech is easy for me. I will be glad to help anyone post books on the CBSA Padlet.
- I just want to bring cookies.
- I love keeping track of newly published YA book. I can contribute by letting everyone know the new books that I think will be worthy of being read for the CBSA.

CBSA book teams are a movement not just a book group. Bookstore buyers, librarians, teachers, and students are all looking towards you to help them know what to buy and read. You are smart and thoughtful. YOU ROCK!

Expectations, read and circle:

- Every judge is on time with their current book at every meeting. Students who are running late or absent will notify their team members as soon as they know that they cannot make it.
- Every team member is expected to contribute to the conversation and no one person will dominate the speaking space. All judges are expected to listen carefully and ask clarifying questions, even if they disagree.
- There will be two remote meetings with other teams in the state. Each judge will be able to demonstrate a thorough knowledge of the books that they have read.
- All team members will return their borrowed books.
